PSC Postpones September 24th Meeting Due to Inclement Weather

U.S. Virgin Islands — The Virgin Islands Public Services Commission (PSC) announces the postponement of its regularly scheduled meeting originally set for Wednesday, September 24, 2025, due to forecasted inclement weather impacting the territory, unpredictable power outages particularly on St. Thomas, as well as the announced closure of government offices.

The decision was made out of an abundance of caution to ensure the safety of PSC staff, commissioners, and the public. We apologize for the late notice.

A new date for the rescheduled meeting will be announced in the coming days and will be posted on the PSC's official website and social media platforms. We encourage the public to stay informed by visiting our Facebook page: Virgin Islands Public Services Commission for updates.

The PSC thanks the public for their understanding and cooperation.
